INTRODUCTION

HIGHLIGHTS

- K 39 states fund at least one kind of prekindergarten program.
- K 37 states appropriate state funds for a prekindergarten program or have a school funding mechanism for 4-year-olds. Three states (New Jersey, Florida and New York) have more than one prekindergarten program.
- K 13 states appropriate state funds to supplement the federal Head Start program. Of these states, 11 also have a state-funded prekindergarten program; the other 2 states only fund Head Start (Alaska and New Hampshire).
- K Only 11 states invest no state funds in either prekindergarten programs or Head Start.
- K State investment ranges from $1 million to well over $200 million annually. The number of children served annually in a state-funded prekindergarten program ranges from a few hundred per state to over 40,000 (California, Georgia, Illinois, New York and Texas).
- K Very few states limit their prekindergarten funding to public schools only (7 states). The majority of states (30 states) permit other entities, such as Head Start and child care agencies and other community-based organizations, to receive these funds either directly or through a contract with a local public school district.
- K While many states consider family income as one of many possible eligibility criteria, only 10 states have established specific family income levels as a required criterion for child eligibility. Of these, 5 limit their program to children at or below 100% of the federal poverty level, which is the same income eligibility criterion used by the federal Head Start program. The 14 states that fund Head Start directly are also focusing on children in poverty.
- K All states use the child's age as one eligibility criterion. Less than half of states (14) with prekindergarten programs limit their programs to 4-year-olds. Nearly as many states (13) serve 3-year-olds and 4-year-olds. Two states include 5-year-olds who are not yet eligible for kindergarten and three states include children from birth to the age of kindergarten entry.

DEFINING TERMS

This report attempts to summarize the essential elements of state-funded prekindergarten programs across the United States. What exactly is a 'prekindergarten program funded by the state?' Most simply, it is the efforts of states –using their own resources – to fund programs and services designed to be early educational experiences that will help prepare children to succeed in school.

State-funded prekindergarten programs are initiatives for children younger than five – preschoolers who have not yet entered kindergarten. A few prekindergarten programs are education funding mechanisms that allow public school districts to enroll children younger than five, count them in average daily attendance reports, and receive state aid for these young students. Most prekindergarten programs are state budget appropriations to a state agency (usually the state education department) to administer a defined program to be operated by school districts directly and often by other entities in communities as well. Most state prekindergarten programs fund daily educational experiences for children that extend for the full school year. Some states set high quality performance standards and monitor programs closely; others place quality control at the local level. Some prekindergarten programs are comprehensive and address the social, health and other needs of the child and the child's family, as the federal Head Start program does. Some states choose to fund Head Start agencies directly. Some states recognize and respond to the needs of working families for longer hours and full-year services in the design of prekindergarten programs. Some state programs are extensive – a few are or plan to become universal -- and generous in the amount of funding per child; others are small in scope and offer modest amounts of funding per child. The only constant among state-funded prekindergarten policy is that there is more variation than similarity.

Hopefully, state funding for prekindergarten is one of several strategies that comprise a state's overall early childhood policy framework. Overall early childhood policy aims to ensure that all children come to school ready to succeed and that families are supported as parents and as essential participants in the workforce. A comprehensive policy framework would include special education for preschoolers and for infants, toddlers and their families; elementary education; child care for young children as well as school-age children; family education, support and preservation; child welfare; economic security for families including welfare reform; and tax policy. State policy encompasses funding, regulating, planning, supporting and improving these and other essential services and programs that contribute to the healthy development of children. Assessing state commitment to early care and education would require information about the full range of programs, services and infrastructure supports. Comparing early childhood policy among the states is beyond the scope of this report, which focuses on one aspect of early childhood policy: state funding for education of children younger than kindergarten entry.

WHAT IS INCLUDED?

To be included in this report, a program had to be supported primarily by state funds, have early education as a goal, focus on children younger than kindergarten entry age, and directly serve children rather than primarily educating their parents. While all states fund special education and early intervention services for children with disabilities from birth to school entry, these programs are not included in this report. Each state with any amount of state funding for prekindergarten programs or Head Start is included. One table was constructed for each state summarizing all of that state's programs. The items selected for presentation in these tables reflect our understanding of what information has essential policy relevance. Each state table begins with a brief history including the purposes of the enactment and then answers the following questions. Which children and/or communities are served? What is the format of the program? How many children are served? Who provides the services and how? How much money is being spent? Who manages it? How is quality assured? Is there planning at the state and/or community levels? Has the program been evaluated? If readers desire clarification or more information, complete contact information is provided for the state-level administrator of each program.

HOW WAS THE INFORMATION COLLECTED?

The draft tables for each state were compiled using published information from several sources including: Early Childhood Programs and the Public Schools: The State Survey (Bank Street College and Wellesley College, 1988); First Steps Promising Futures (Children's Defense Fund, 1994); the 1998 edition of Map and Track (National Center for Children in Poverty). These were extended using the data collected last year through a survey of the states conducted by the Bush Center at Yale University and a brief internet search for recent enactments. These draft tables were sent to the appropriate state administrators with a request for verification in the form most convenient for them (phone, fax or e-mail). Based on their responses, corrections and additions were made to the tables and these were re-sent for final verification, if requested. All verification was conducted in June and July of 1998, making the information as current as possible.

CAVEATS AND CONSIDERATIONS

Collecting comparable data across the fifty states is a challenge. Collecting, verifying and reporting information on a tight timeframe, even limiting the review to a modest number of areas of highest interest to state policymakers, increased the challenge substantially. We have made every effort to verify the accuracy of these summaries, but undoubtedly some errors remain. Beyond errors, certain items in the tables deserve a word of caution.

The 'population served' section describes the eligibility criteria used to determine which children are served. Because prekindergarten programs are by design aimed to improve educational outcomes, eligibility criteria reflect factors and characteristics related to educational performance and achievement. These may include the child's primary language, the child's developmental level as measured on a screening instrument, the mother's education level and/or her age, family income and other characteristics. In addition to personal factors, characteristics of communities (school districts) are also considered in the resource allocation decision. Even in states with 'universal' prekindergarten programs, prekindergarten resources are usually targeted to the most needy children and/or neediest communities first.

'Number of children served' is not an unduplicated count of all children served over a full year; it is generally a count of the total spaces made available and/or paid for with state funds during a given year. Further, there is no method currently available to know how many children are served by more than one program, since data reporting is by funding stream, not by individual child. In the Head Start supplements especially, the number of children is difficult to calculate since many of these programs offer a relatively small amount of money to every Head Start grantee and the child count reported for these may include children served with federal funds. Where Head Start expansion is funded, the number of children is the number served with state funds only (if that number was available).

The 'funds' section reports the annual state appropriation for the most recent fiscal year available (and wherever possible is the same as the fiscal year for children served). Fiscal year (FY) refers to the state fiscal year, which includes the school year ending within that fiscal year. The section on 'program standards' includes four items that research has shown to be most closely related to positive child outcomes: class size and ratio, staff qualifications, education program/curriculum, and parent involvement. Planning, performance assessment and evaluation are highlighted because results matter and with the proliferation of programs and funding sources for young children, planning is essential at both the state and community levels.

WHAT IS NOT INCLUDED?

There is much more to know about PreK policy than can be covered here. For example, how much are the contracting provisions that are widely permitted actually used? How does the quality of state-funded programs compare among schools, community-based programs and Head Start? To what extent are PreK programs helping working families, especially low-income families who cannot afford quality care on their own?

The full picture of early childhood policy and practice in the states is beyond our scope. State action to direct federal funds, such as Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) or the Child Care and Development Fund (CCDF), to specific projects to benefit preschoolers is omitted here. Collecting data on the many creative ways that states are using these federal funds would be a worthy next step for other policy researchers to take. Similarly, many cities and counties invest their own resources in early childhood programs. Leading examples include New York City, Chicago, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh, among others. Local funds are not included here (nor is the District of Columbia, which some national reports include as a state). The National League of Cities is an excellent source of information on city contributions to early care and education.

Eleven states are not represented in this compendium (Alabama, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah and Wyoming) because they do not appropriate state funds for any specific prekindergarten or early childhood education program. Some states, including these, may support early childhood activities by directing federal funds under state control such as the Child Care and Development Fund (CCDF) and Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF). For example, Kansas appropriated TANF funds to expand Early Head Start. Indiana makes available some of its federal CCDF funds to community groups in each county, called Step Ahead Councils, to plan for improvements in early childhood services and encourages private sector investment in these activities.

SUMMARY TABLES OF SELECTED CHARACTERISTICS

The tables immediately following are designed to summarize across states several characteristics that may be of interest to policymakers who are planning to create or refine prekindergarten programs. Following these tables, beginning on page 10 are the descriptions of each state's programs.

Associate teachers work as lead teachers under the curriculum supervision of a qualified teacher.

	Educational Program: State preschool guidelines reflect NAEYC practice standards, Head Start Performance Standards, and state child care licensing requirements. Developmentally appropriate practices are encouraged in all areas of child development. Parental Involvement: Each program is required to allow for active parent involvement, considering the different types of family structure and needs, and include home visits, conferences, volunteering, and regular communication.

ASSESSMENT OF PROGRAM PERFORMANCE	Each district's preschool program coordinator performs fiscal monitoring four times per year. Each district is required to conduct an annual program evaluation to review rates of participation, parent satisfaction and child progress in primary grades.
EVALUATION OF PROGRAM	Since 1991, an annual statewide evaluation has been conducted examining children currently in the preschool program, children entering primary school and longitudinal study of children beyond primary. The University of Kentucky annually evaluates about 1,500 children among three groups: in program, not in program, and in program in previous years. Children are assessed in communication, motor, social and adaptive skills, cognition, and emerging literacy. A long-term study of children is in process. MARYLAND

NAME OF PROGRAM(S)	Extended Elementary Education Program (EEEP)
HISTORY	In 1979, the General Assembly appropriated funds based on a successful pilot program authorized by a State Board of Education resolution. The program targeted for at-risk children in Baltimore and Prince George's counties has now expanded to include all 24 school districts. The goal is school success, defined as meeting high expectations of student performance. The General Assembly recently passed the $62 million School Accountability Funds for Excellence (SAFE) legislation targeting at-risk students K-12. This total includes an additional $4.3 million per year for EEEP through FY 2003, at which time the effects of programs will be evaluated to determine future funding.
POPULATION SERVED	Children must be 4 years old by December 31 of the enrollment year and living in the attendance area of eligible schools, as defined by priority ranking using the following criteria: federal Free and Reduced Meal count, MD School Performance Assessment Program Change Index, demographic data such as student mobility and family literacy, lack of quality early childhood programs, and need for comprehensive services.
HOURS OF OPERATION	Minimum is 2.5 hours/day; 5 days/week; school year.
NO. OF CHILDREN SERVED	9,880 (FY 1997)
ELIGIBLE PRE-K PROVIDERS	Public school districts only
ADMINISTRATIVE AUSPICES	Department of Education, Early Learning Section.
PROGRAM STANDARDS	Ratios: 1:10 with class size of 20 Staff Qualifications: Teachers must have certification in early childhood education. Aides must be high school graduates. Educational Program: Programs must meet the DOE standards for implementing Quality PreK Programs, which are similar to NAEYC appropriate practice guidelines. Curriculum varies among districts, but all are developmentally oriented and guided by state standards. Parental Involvement: Family and community members are actively involved in school-based decisions

FUNDS	Method of Funding: School funding on a formula basis State-appropriated Funds: $19.2 million (FY 1998)
ONGOING PLANNING	State Level: Community Level: Local school systems are required to submit a comprehensive plan including the use of funds for Title I, state compensatory education funds, LEP (limited English Proficiency) funds, and EEEP by September of each year.
ASSESSMENT OF PROGRAM PERFORMANCE	School systems must develop written philosophy for program and plan for administration, evaluation, and modification. State staff provide fiscal monitoring of local programs four times per year. Program supports occurs throughout the year.
EVALUATION OF PROGRAM	A self-appraisal form of evaluation is required of EEEP programs at least every three years. This is an accreditation process based on the Maryland Quality Standards for Early Learning Programs and includes self-appraisal with validation (this can be done in conjunction with NAEYC accreditation). Statewide evaluation has shown that EEEP prekindergarten programs have a positive effect on the participants' school performance through elementary and middle school. The evaluation findings also suggest that participation in EEEP prekindergarten programs significantly reduces the number of children identified as having disabilities or placed in special education.

MASSACHUSETTS

NAME OF PROGRAM(S)	Community Partnerships for Children	Head Start Supplement
HISTORY	The original program started in 1986 as part of the Public School Improvement Act of 1985. In 1992, it was revised and became Community Partnerships for Children (CPC) when additional funds were appropriated for FY 1993. The goals are to 1) increase access, affordability, quality, comprehensiveness of early childhood programs, and 2) create local systems of services through collaboration.	Since 1988, the state has appropriated funds for Head Start. The majority of these funds support salary enhancement supplements to each grantee in the state. The remainder supports service expansion of Head Start.
POPULATION SERVED	Eligible children must be between 2.9 years and the age of kindergarten eligibility in the school district and have working parents (either full- or part-time) earning under 100% of state median income. (A disabled parent is not required to work.) Local programs may set eligibility priorities within these criteria. All programs must serve, or be willing to serve, children with disabilities (regardless of whether the parent is employed).	federal Head Start eligibility
HOURS OF OPERATION	The minimum is 2.5 hours/day, 3 days/week for the school year. Many programs are full working day year-round. At least 1/3 of children must be in full-day, full-year programs.	per federal Head Start requirements
NO. OF CHILDREN SERVED	15,300 (FY 1998)	approx. 450 (FY 1998) (This represents service expansion.)
ELIGIBLE PRE-K PROVIDERS	The lead agency for a community -- a city, town(s) or other geographic area -- may be a public school, a Head Start center, or a licensed child care center. The lead agency subcontracts for services. Head Start programs, private child care programs, public school preschools, community agencies, and family child care providers are all encouraged to participate in the collaborative network and all may serve children funded by Community Partnerships funds as long as they meet applicable standards.	federal Head Start grantees
ADMINISTRATIVE AUSPICES	Department of Education, Early Learning Services	Department of Education, Early Learning Services

PROGRAM STANDARDS	Ratios: 1:9 with maximum class size of 18 if programs are in Head Start; 1:10 with maximum class size of 20 if programs are in child care; 2:15 with maximum class size of 15 if programs are in public schools. Staff Qualifications: Teacher qualifications depend on the setting and may range from CDA credential to teacher certification in early childhood education. Educational Program: All programs must seek NAEYC accreditation (family child care providers must have/seek a CDA credential). Those in public schools must meet state preschool standards. Head Start, private child care and family child care must be licensed. All programs may use a formal curriculum or develop their own; curriculum is a local decision. Public school curriculum frameworks include PreK and may be used as guidance, but these are not mandatory. Parental Involvement: Parents are required on the community council (the policy/oversight entity). Most programs have a range of parent involvement, family education and family support activities, although none are specifically required.	Head Start Performance Standards
FUNDS	Method of Funding: Competitive grants with priority given to cities and towns with high concentrations of low-income working families (majority of new funds). The remainder is allocated for grants to other communities to serve families earning under 100% of State Median Income. State-appropriated Funds: $60 million (FY 1998)	Method of Funding: All Head Start grantees receive an award for the salary supplement. Expansion is competitive grants based on need. State-appropriated Funds: $6.8 million (FY 1998).
ONGOING PLANNING	State Level: The state Early Childhood Advisory Council to the Massachusetts State BOE oversees and plans for CPC, and works with the state Advisory Council to the Office of Child Care Services. Community Level: A community partnership council in each district (or multi-district community) develops a plan for expanding and improving preschool education maximizing the use of existing resources. Parents; early childhood providers from the public schools, Head Start and child care; and other stakeholders are required to be members of the council.

ASSESSMENT OF PROGRAM PERFORMANCE	Each community council is responsible for assessing community needs, monitoring the progress of local programs toward meeting those needs and overseeing quality. Progress toward accreditation is monitored closely as a measure of success. DOE sponsors ‘think tanks’ for community councils and local partnership program staff to focus on issues of mutual concern such as needs assessment, subcontracting procedures.
EVALUATION OF PROGRAM	Local programs are required to do an annual evaluation of their own programs. An evaluation of Community Partnerships for Children by Tufts University found that the program had improved collaboration, improved quality (as demonstrated by seeking or achieving accreditation), and served many children who would not otherwise have attended preschool. The evaluation estimated that for every state dollar invested as additional forty-five cents of in-kind contributions were provided by community programs and organizations.

MICHIGAN

NAME OF PROGRAM(S)	Michigan School Readiness Program.
HISTORY	The program began in 1985 as a pilot. The goal was and is to serve at-risk preschoolers who are not eligible for Head Start, ensuring school readiness for 4-year olds at risk of school failure.
POPULATION SERVED	Children who are 4 years old (but not yet 5) on or before December 1 of program year and who have at least two risk factors are eligible. At least 50% of children served must be low income. There are 24 established risk factors related to school failure, one is low income defined as eligible for free/reduced lunch or for the state's Unified Child Care subsidy program.
HOURS OF OPERATION	Minimum is 2.5 hours/day, 4 days/week for 30 weeks/year in a classroom model. The minimum in the home-based model is 30 home visits and 15 group meetings per year.
NO. OF CHILDREN SERVED	21,085 (FY 1996)
ELIGIBLE PRE-K PROVIDERS	Public school districts which may contract with private schools, community agencies, Head Start centers, and child care centers. In addition, grants are available to private schools, community agencies, Head Start centers, child care centers and family child care providers.
ADMINISTRATIVE AUSPICES	Department of Education, Early Childhood Programs
PROGRAM STANDARDS	Ratios: 1:8 with maximum class size of 18 Staff Qualifications: A teacher must have either certification in early childhood education, or a college degree with specialization in early childhood education, or an associate degree in early childhood education and a CDA credential. An associate teacher must have either a CDA credential, or an associate degree in early childhood education, or documented formal training equivalent to that required for the CDA. Educational Program: All programs must meet state child care licensing requirements and follow Michigan Standards of Quality & Curriculum Guidelines. The guidelines include sections on philosophy, curriculum, learning environment, staff/parent involvement, community liaison, funding. Parental Involvement: Programs must have an advisory committee which includes one parent per 18 children. Two home visits and 2 parent-teacher conferences are required. At local option, other activities may be offered such as classroom volunteering, workshops, parent education, etc.

FUNDS	Method of Funding: School funding on a formula basis for school district operated programs accompanied by local needs assessment. Competitive grants for non-public school agencies only. State-appropriated Funds: $67 million (FY 1997)
ONGOING PLANNING	State Level: Community Level: School districts applying for grant funds must establish community advisory committee, which will be involved in planning and evaluating program and provide opportunities for collaboration with and involvement of community, voluntary and social service agencies and organizations.
ASSESSMENT OF PROGRAM PERFORMANCE	Each program is required to submit a written report annually including a comprehensive self-assessment using the 'Program Quality Assessment.' State Early Childhood Education staff monitor competitive grant funded programs for fiscal and programmatic purposes at least once in each three-year funding cycle. About 10% of school district programs are monitored each year.
EVALUATION OF PROGRAM	An evaluation by High/Scope provided both extensive (at all sites) and intensive (5 sites) evaluation of programs and child outcomes. Local follow-up of children is requirement for all programs. Early findings show program children are more prepared for learning and more advanced developmentally at kindergarten entry than peers not in the program. High/Scope is conducting a long-term study of children both locally and statewide (with comparison groups).

MISSOURI

NAME OF PROGRAM(S)	Early Childhood Development, Education and Care Programs
HISTORY	Legislation passed in 1998 establishes the Early Childhood Development, Education and Care Fund to “give parents meaningful choices and assistance in choosing child care and education arrangements that are appropriate for their families and to support programs that prepare children to enter school ready to learn.” The effective date of the legislation is January 1999. The ECDEC Fund receives funding from the Gaming Commission Fund (state revenues from gambling fees). The ECDEC Fund will support ECDEC preschool programs. The Fund will also support certificates for low-income families (defined as below 185% of poverty) to purchase early childhood development care and education; increased rates of child care subsidy reimbursement for accredited programs; and certificates for low-income families with children under age 3 who care for their children at home.
POPULATION SERVED	Children are eligible for ECDEC preschool programs from birth to age of kindergarten entrance. The initial preschool programs will likely target 3- and 4-year olds. The legislation states that preference may be given for new programs, ones targeted to areas of the state with high need, programs for children with special needs, programs that offer non-traditional hours and/or serve high concentrations of low-income families.
HOURS OF OPERATION	To be determined
NO. OF CHILDREN SERVED	To be determined
ELIGIBLE PRE-K PROVIDERS	Public school districts and private agencies including community agencies, Head Start centers, and child care centers.

NEW JERSEY

NAME OF PROGRAM(S)	Preschool for 4-year-olds	Early Childhood Program Aid	Head Start-like Services
HISTORY	The state school code has permitted school districts to offer kindergartens for both 4- and 5-year-olds since 1903. Permission to count 4-year-olds at 100% of per pupil state aid for reimbursement began in the 1940s.	The Comprehensive Educational Improvement Act of 1996 is the state's school funding law in response to the school finance equity lawsuit (Abbott). The Act established Early Childhood Program Aid for the lowest wealth school districts in the state to extend part-day kindergartens to full-day for 5-year-olds and to offer half-day preschool to all resident 3- and 4-year olds. (This replaced the state's former prekindergarten grant program, GoodStarts.)	Since 1988, the state has appropriated funds to support federal Head Start programs in New Jersey to offer extended day services and to provide comprehensive Head-Start-like services in community-based child care programs.
POPULATION SERVED	Resident 4-year-olds are eligible. The definition of the population served is local district option; districts may establish their own eligibility criteria. In districts without specific eligibility requirements, age and residence are the only criteria used and children are served on first-come, first-served basis.	The 28 "Abbott" districts are required to provide half-day preschool for all resident 3- and 4-year-olds and full-day kindergarten for all resident 5-year-olds. ECPA funding became available to the "Abbott" districts in the 1997-98 school year. Full implementation is required by 1999-00 for both programs. Beginning with the 1997-98 school year, other districts became eligible for ECPA. In 1997-98, there were 97 others, for a total of 125. In 1998-99, there are 108 districts eligible for ECPA, for a total of 136. These districts are required to provide half-day preschool for all resident 4-year-olds and full-day kindergarten for all resident 5-year-olds. Full implementation is required by the 2001-02 school year.	3- and 4-year-olds whose family income is below the federal poverty and whose parents need extended day services due to work, or training or education leading to employment

ELIGIBLE PRE-K PROVIDERS	Programs may be offered by any public or community-based agency, including public school districts, community agencies, Head Start centers, child care centers, community colleges and state universities.

³ For FY 1999, the Legislature has appropriated $5 million in state funds for Head Start grantees to serve children of TANF recipients.

FUNDS	Method of Funding: Contracts are awarded based on a competitive application process, subject to state appropriations. Locations with high numbers of young children and few available licensed early childhood program spaces receive preference. State-appropriated Funds: $1.3 million (FY 1998)
ONGOING PLANNING	State Level: Community Level: Programs must be collaboratively planned.
ASSESSMENT OF PROGRAM PERFORMANCE	Programs are monitored on-site once or twice per year. All programs do a self-assessment using the Infant Toddler Rating Scale or the New Mexico Guide for Preschool. Program reviews and program outcomes are submitted in annual final reports to the OCD.
EVALUATION OF PROGRAM	An independent evaluation conducted in 1992 found that collaboration was working at the community level, presence of well-trained early childhood personnel was essential to positive outcomes for participants, and that ongoing mentoring, monitoring and technical assistance were beneficial to programs. In one program using the Early Language Program (ELP) screening assessment, significant advances in children's overall language development were documented.

NAME OF PROGRAM(S)	Early Childhood Investment Fund	Head Start Supplement
HISTORY	In 1997, within a larger school improvement bill, the Legislature established state aid for local school districts to design early childhood programs in response to family needs. Districts may offer prekindergarten, before and after school care, extended day kindergarten, parent education and family support programs through family centers, and/or reduce class sizes in the elementary grades. In 1998, the legislature amended the bill (effective FY 1999 and thereafter) to establish a 3% set aide for early childhood and require school districts to submit an early childhood plan to the Department of Education (DOE) for approval. Funds may be used for direct services and to purchase materials and equipment for children.	Since 1986, the legislature has appropriated funds for Head Start. The original purpose was to supply the cash match required to receive the federal Head Start funds. Expansion of services was an additional purpose. The state funds are used by Head Start programs to match either federal funds for Head Start or federal funds for Medicaid. The Medicaid funding supports Head Start programs as providers of targeted case management services.

The DIAL_R screening instrument is used in most districts. Districts may use other criteria such as eligibility for free/reduced lunch, age of the mother (teen parent), structure of the family (single parent or number of children).

TEXAS

NAME OF PROGRAM(S)	Public School PreKindergarten
HISTORY	In 1984, the PreKindergarten program was mandated by the Legislature to serve high-risk 4-year olds. The goal was to break the debilitating cycle of costly remediation and school failure in later grades by building a solid foundation of school successes among 4-year-olds.
POPULATION SERVED	Districts must offer PreK if there are at least 15 eligible 3- and 4-year-olds. Children must be at least 3 years old on or before September 1 of the program year, and either unable to speak or comprehend English, educationally disadvantaged (i.e., eligible for free/reduced lunch program), or homeless. Four-year-olds have first priority, although 3-year-olds may be served.
HOURS OF OPERATION	Minimum is 3 hours/day for the full school year.
NO. OF CHILDREN SERVED	120,053 (FY 1997)
ELIGIBLE PRE-K PROVIDERS	Public school districts, which by law may contract with private entities (such as Head Start and child care centers) to operate the PreK program.
ADMINISTRATIVE AUSPICES	Texas Education Agency (TEA)
PROGRAM STANDARDS	Ratios: No requirements. (The Legislature revoked the authority of the TEA and State Board to set requirements or adopt guidelines for the PreK program. Previously, class size was limited to 22. The Commissioner has written to districts encouraging them to maintain class size at 22 children.) Staff Qualifications: Teachers must hold certification with an early childhood education or a kindergarten endorsement. Educational Program: Developmentally appropriate practice based on NAEYC guidelines is encouraged. Guidelines called “Essential Elements for PreK” were developed at state level by a committee of professional educators. The document is based on current research in child development, early childhood education, and first and second language acquisition. It identified sound, proven practices to foster social/emotional, intellectual, aesthetic, and physical development in children. Districts are still encouraged to follow these guidelines. Parental Involvement: No requirements, although parent involvement is an agency-wide objective for all programs at the TEA.

FUNDS	Method of Funding: School funding on a formula basis. State-appropriated Funds: $145 million (FY 1997) ⁵
ONGOING PLANNING	State Level: Community Level:
ASSESSMENT OF PROGRAM PERFORMANCE	Although the State Board of Education establishes program and curriculum standards and monitors program implementation for all programs, the Legislature revoked their authority to do so for PreK. The TEA continues to accredit public schools. Accreditation includes all programs operating in a district, including PreK.
EVALUATION OF PROGRAM	A five-year evaluation study was conducted by the TEA from 1989 through 1994. The study included a statewide survey in two of the years and in all five years, case studies, self study and a longitudinal evaluation. The findings show that PreK participants were less likely to be retained in grade or placed in special education and more likely to be reading on grade level than children who did not attend PreK.
